

SAKLESHPUR BYRAMUDI OFFBEAT DRIVE

NOV 1ST and 2ND 2014

Sakleshpur, India

ORGANISED BY

About Offroading

Off-roading is the activity of driving or riding a vehicle on unsurfaced roads or tracks, made of materials such as sand, gravel, riverbeds, mud, snow, rocks, and other natural terrain.

Traveling on off-road terrains require vehicles capable of accommodating off-road driving such as ATVs. These vehicles accommodate off road conditions with extended ground clearance, off-road tires and drive-train. Some manufacturers offer vehicles specifically meant for off-road use.

Recreational Offroading

Cross-country

Cross-country off-roading is an activity that lasts several days on routes less travelled or other terrains. Routes generally have obstacles in largely uninhabited and uncharted terrain.

Green laning

Green laning (or two-tracking) is a leisure pursuit, generally suitable for any four-wheel-drive vehicle, even those without modifications or additional equipment. The term green lane refers to the fact that the routes are predominantly along unsurfaced tracks, forest tracks, or older roadways that may have fallen into disuse.

Competitive trials

Trials are probably the safest form of motorsport. All progress is made at low speed and the emphasis is on skill, rather than finishing first although trialing can be highly competitive.

Vehicle modification

While production vehicles with off-road capabilities can travel on unsurfaced roads, modifications are needed to travel on terrains exceeding capabilities of original configuration.

Environmental impact

Off-road vehicle use on public land has been criticized by the government and environmental organizations. They have noted several consequences of illegal ORV use such as pollution, trail damage, erosion, land degradation, possible species extinction, and habitat destruction which can leave hiking trails impassable. ORV proponents argue that legal use taking place under planned access along with the multiple environment and trail conservation efforts by ORV groups will mitigate these issues. Many offroad groups from various parts of the globe advocate Treadlightly, which is the responsible use of public lands used for off-road activities.

The initial five member offroad team collectively named MudHogs by team members Hemanth, Narthan, Anush, ShriRam and Pranesh was formed for people who want to drive off road and wheel with a knowledgeable bunch of off roaders and also help beginners drive and understand their 4wd vehicles and use them to their maximum potent.

MudHogs pledge to organise meet-ups with other Jeepers or fellow off-roaders to swap info, go off-roading, and have tons of fun. Got a New Jeep? New to Jeeping? Don't have a Jeep yet? We'll be glad to show you how to play with your new toy and everything about them and what to watchout for.

So guys we live in a town where we see too many clean metal boxes with clean rubbers and shiny new 4x4 stickers on them. It's time to let those metal boxes get dirty once in a while and see what they were built for in the first place.
